

According to the study specific informed consent procedure approved by the Norwegian Ethics committee, only oral informed consent is necessary from the patient or appropriate representative when witnessed by a third, independent health personnel. The information is recorded in the patient's journal.